To Whom It May Concern:

As a leader in the industrial demolition and scrap metals processing industry for over 120 years, the success of the Mayer Pollock Steel Corporation is linked not only to the high percentage of repeat business garnered over the past decades, but also the ability to continue to attract new customers from across the country.

One of the contributing factors of this trend is a result of our valued relationship with ISNworld. With our health and safety statistics, previous project testimonials and referrals, geographical locations of where we can execute projects, and a host of other pertinent information literally at the fingertips of prospective new clients, we can now tell those interested in our services to simply “look us up on ISNworld”.

A member of ISNworld since 2004, it is our intention to continue with this relationship as more and more potential new owner clients are becoming a part of this system as well.
